

(Scottsdale, AZ; 3 January 2013) WageWatch (www.wagewatch.com), the leading source for web-based compensation surveys in the hospitality, gaming, staffing, non-profit and healthcare industries, has announced that Debra Anundson has joined WageWatch as Manager of Compensation Analytics.

Ms. Anundson is a nationally-recognized human resource professional in compensation and benefits programs for the hotel industry. She was formerly with Interstate Hotels & Resorts for 22+ years before joining WageWatch on January 1st. At Interstate, she managed all facets of compensation, health & welfare and retirement benefits. She created salary structures for exempt and non-exempt positions for the full service and select service hotel divisions as well as the corporate headquarters located in Washington, DC.

Randy Pullen, founder and CEO of WageWatch said, "Debra Anundson brings the knowledge and experience of designing and implementing compensation structures for all service levels of the lodging industry. Her experience will help our survey participants with their specific survey needs as well as in designing or updating their compensation structures. We welcome her to our management team."

WageWatch, a Web-based service for surveying, reporting, and analyzing compensation data, is headquartered in Scottsdale, Arizona.

ABOUT WAGE WATCH

WageWatch (www.wagewatch.com <http://www.wagewatch.com>) is the leading Web-based source for compensation surveys for a number of industries. Its patent pending PeerMark™ Wage Survey is the only Web-based survey tool that allows individual survey participants to select their competitive set for comparison purposes and create custom reports to meet their individual needs.